SHOULD RECONSIDER.

Fiscal Court Should Annual Part of This Year's Levy.

The Fiscal Court in April 1895 levied 20 cents on the $100 for the maintenance of free turnpikes.

The collection of that part of the levy was enjoined.

The Court of Appeals has now decided that that tax shall be collected.

The Fiscal Court in April 1896 also levied a tax of 20 cents on the $100 for free turnpikes.

This would make a tax of 40 cents on the $100 to be collected this year.

The LEADERS respectfully suggests to the Honorable Court and its members that there be a special term, and that the levy of 20 cents for this year be rescinded.

The times are hard.

Most of the taxpayers are already strained.

The friends of free pikes desire to be generous.

And that there may be no unnecessary burden on the people THE LEADERS hopes the Court will so far revise its action as to collect only 20 cents this year, which will yield ample for the work now in hand.

Next year we may be called upon to purchase some of the main pikes; but we are hoping for better times with greater ability to pay them.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

Little Joseph Haulman Drowned Saturday Morning.

A bad accident which cost the life of a bright little fellow happened Saturday morning about 10 o'clock.

Harry and Joseph Haulman, the two oldest sons of Mr. Harry Haulman, were at the river that morning playing around the raft of logs belonging to W. B. Mathews & Co.

Joseph, the youngest, attempted to jump from one log to another that was loose, and in striking the log caused it to turn, throwing the little fellow into the river.

He sank and never arose again until taken out twenty minutes later a corpse.

He was about 7 years old and an exceedingly bright little fellow, and the sympathy of the entire community goes out to the stricken parents.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the house, Rev. J. S. Sims conducting the service, the remains being interred in the Maysville Cemetery.

A peculiarity and feature is the fact that just a year ago Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Haulman buried a son.

THE NATION'S DEAD

How "Memorial Day" Was Observed in Maysville.

J. P. MCCARTNEY'S ADDRESS.

An Immense Throng Participates in the Impressive Ceremonies.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.

Memorial Day was more generally observed in Maysville than on any former occasion.

The National colors, were displayed on every side, the Federal offices, the Banks and a number of business houses closed at noon, and the living gave themselves largely to the sad duty of remembering the dead.

In the forenoon a delegation from Joseph Heiser Post, G. A. R., went to Washington and decorated the graves of the soldiers who sleep in the Catholic Cemetery there, while others joined Bailey Post of Aberdeen in paying tribute to their dead.

In the afternoon the G. A. R., headed by Haucke & Band, marched to the Cemetery, where the ritualistic exercises were performed at the Monument, the graves of the soldiers were strewn with flowers, after which the audience repaired to Dietrich's Park, where Hon. John P. McCartney delivered the Memorial Address.

Mr. McCartney, who was introduced by Mr. Thomas A. Davis, spoke as follows:

ADDRESS OF HON. JOHN P. MCCARTNEY. For those who fought and those who fell in defense of the Union, there will ever be the gratitude of a mighty people. For the living, the tender solicitude and guardian care of the Republic. For the dead, hallowed memories and a monument enduring as time, erected in the hearts of the people.

Republics are not ungrateful. Often has it been said that Republics are ungrateful of the services of those who risked all for the sake of their country, but for all such statements the Nation does not forget. The fancies of the people lightly change in the rapid progress of events, as each day brings with it new thoughts, new ideas, new leaders, new sentiments change; parties rise and fall. Like the shifting scenes in a panorama, current events are ever passing. Yet these are the events of the day or the year, that live their short life and are forgotten. It is different with the events that make history and stamp themselves indelibly on the face of time. Republics are not ungrateful when the occasion comes. Like a mighty instrument of music long silent, that wakes when the hand of a master touches the keys and fills the air with melody divine, the great heart of the people responds when touched with sublime heroism. To die for one's country, that is the noblest of all actions. And years have passed, yet those who died at Thermopylae are living in history's pages as though it were yesterday. Heroes who die for their country belong to the ages. Time touches lightly patriotic deeds, and then to glorify rather than diminish. Shall Gettysburg be forgotten, or the Wilderness Campaign? Shall a thousand deaths of valor on the hard fought fields disappear? It cannot be. Woven in the pages of history, entwined in ligas of graceful poetry, written in the National music of the Republic, embalmed in song and story, each year will add luster to the deeds of those who fought that the Union might remain one and indivisible. Marble columns rise, wonderful works of artistic fancy, to testify to the soldier dead. Statues of bronze and paintings that appeal to the passer-by tell the story of their deeds of daring. It is the custom of civilized Nations to so honor their dead. It is true in this land of ours, but in our land year by year has grown a custom more beautiful, more tender and expressive than any testimonial art can rear.

The mind cannot conceive anything more beautiful and expressive than the Nation's tribute on Memorial Day to her warrior dead. It was an inspiration, for says to all the Nations, "Mable may crumble and metal may rust, but the soldier dead of this Republic have erected in the hearts of the people a monument for all time."

For those who lived amid the war's alarms, it is a day of tender memories. For the generation since the war, a reminder of the tremendous cost of National existence.

What brought the conflict on, or why the Nation was torn and shattered by the stern necessities of war, can matter but little in these days when we dwell to gether a harmonious people, proud of the Nation and its progress.

Enough to know that civilization was blocked in its onward movement by that which was foreign to the genius of our institutions, and slavery disappeared as a relic of the dark ages in the triumphant march of progress and enlightened civilization. Whenever in the progress of the world a custom or a law or a right, which seems inherent in the people, has served its time or is obnoxious to civilization, it is bound to go. Sometime in peaceful revolution, but more often by war. When it is civil war it is doubly terrible, but out of it progress is made and the world at large made better through the sacrifice. The war has a sad necessity. Often advised it could not be stayed. Compromise measures failed. It was the terrible, but out of the legacy of bitterness, sorrow, hate, suffering and death the Nation has arisen under changed conditions, mightier today than before, more strongly united in its bond of Union and the foremost factor in the world's civilization. Those living today who passed through that tremendous drama in the country's history appreciate what the war meant in fullest measure. They heard of its glories, but knew its sorrows. It was not so much the stirring times and the prospect of fame, it was not the pay of the soldier, but patriotism in its highest sense that made it possible year after year to fill the ranks with determined men. To the survivors of those days it must be pleasant to look out upon the land and see what their efforts have wrought. No vast standing armies or haught of the people. Conscious in the strength of its citizen-soldiers, as shown on many a bloody field the Nation rests serene while European groans under the debts made in support of vast armies. Instead of two Nations with standing armies along the borders North and South we have accepted the peace of the sword and in hand to hand in concert a reunited people. In the graves where sleep the dead, brave men in Blue, brave men in Gray, let the armies engendered by the war be buried, and on this day, when the earth is clothed with its richest garb, and all nature is rejoicing, let kindly feeling prevail. Time with its softening influences has smoothed the hard and bitter feelings, let there be only memories hallowed by the passing years remaining, for the beautiful rites of today are symbolic only of love and tenderness.

To those of us who belong to the generation since the war, it is known only in story or tradition or from the printed page of the past. Time has smoothed away much of its horrors, and while we read of splendid deeds of valor on the tented field, and in imagination follow the passing regiments as in history's pages we see fields fought and won, we know and appreciate the little bit of the horrors of war. Historians vie in vivid description of battle fields, and paint in gorgeous colors the charging squadrons, and the heart of youth is stirred by the gallant deeds portrayed.

War is magnificent. Somewhere in human nature there is a sentiment that civilization cannot eliminate, that causes the pulse of man to beat with greater speed and sends the blood bounding through his veins in quick motion when the sound of martial music is heard. Some where in human nature there is a sentiment that causes man to take a stern joy in strife. So men go to war and amid its stirring scenes heroes spring into action who otherwise might have passed their lives in useless existence.

War is magnificent. So doubtless thought the soldiers of the Civil War as the evening marched away with the sun lying and drums beating to their part on the field of action.

War is magnificent. So doubtless swept by on parade clad in the gorgeous panoply of war, the men who were the soldier's breast. In imagination glorious deeds were to be performed, honor, fame and rank was a part of the glorious vision of those untired in action. The war was to end in some day, and the men who were to be honored and rewarded for their part in the war were to be honored and rewarded for their part in the war.

War is magnificent. The days went by, and the years. No more the gaily marching columns. Stern, bronzed warriors men walked in the ranks. War is death. Sentiment disappeared. No longer the dream of a summer holiday in the field and then home, but a struggle for life, for home, for National existence.

BALLENGER'S.

War is terrible. So sighed the sad-hearted woman at home, by the banks of the silent flowing Southern river or on the desolate plains where the storm of battle had raged soldier boys were sleeping the sleep that knows no waking. Death and sorrow and loss, for those who have seen its sufferings care little for its glories. Magnificent in its proportions, grand in its heroism, terrible in its consequences, the world looked on in wonder while the people who were bound together by kindred ties met in the greatest conflict of the ages. Its scenes have taken their places as history.

Experiences sad and gay remain as reminiscences of the soldier life. Memories of the past, fading, dispened by the passing years linger with the veterans of the Grand Army, though the comrades who fell have long since joined the innumerable army in the unknown land. Stonewall Jackson rides no more along the serried ranks of Gray. Grant, stern genius of battle, silent, and strong, watches no more his charging squadrons. Peaceful are Manassas fields. Silent the heights of Gettysburg, where rise the monuments to the dead, mutely testify to the valor of the American people.

"Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." Out of the mighty conflict came a mutual respect between the warring sections that has made the Nation stronger in the mutual esteem of its people that comes from such stern tests of manhood. It was demonstrated that warrior blood flowed in the veins of the American people, whether they came from the North or the South, and each section found worthy common in the field. Whether from North or South, our soldiers have demonstrated that they combine qualities that show the highest development of manhood. No grander record of the war has been handed down in concert a reunited people. In the graves where sleep the dead, brave men in Blue, brave men in Gray, let the armies engendered by the war be buried, and on this day, when the earth is clothed with its richest garb, and all nature is rejoicing, let kindly feeling prevail. Time with its softening influences has smoothed the hard and bitter feelings, let there be only memories hallowed by the passing years remaining, for the beautiful rites of today are symbolic only of love and tenderness.

any land seek the blessings liberty bestows, where energy and genius flourish to ambitious youth stepping stones to the highest walks of life, where freedom reigns and tyranny is unknown, look out upon its smiling fields and beautiful cities, and realize that now did your part in preserving the mighty fabric of the Union, and then must you know and feel that your trials and sufferings have not been in vain and that your services have not been forgotten. Grandeur yet must be the future of the Republic until its mighty mission is fulfilled, and in the coming years generations yet unborn will pay their tribute to the patriotic dead, but war and its alarms have no part in its proceedings. Standing in the City of the Dead while the summer winds are sighing a requiem over the graves of the departed, let us remember that we are one common people, united by kindred ties and common interests. A unity of interest and kindly feeling, now and forever more.

At the conclusion of Mr. McCartney's address Miss Gertrude Harding, a sprightly little lady, recited "A Little Girl's Wish," which was a charming fancy.

This was followed by the National Anthem, "America," and a couple of numbers by the Band, when the immense audience dispersed.

It was an ideal day, and its observance was more general than ever before. The members of Joseph Heiser Post, G. A. R., not only for his scholarly address but for his generosity in declining to accept even a return of his traveling expenses.

THE CONGRESS

May Be Able to Adjourn on Saturday, or Next Monday.

All the Appropriation Bills Are Enrolled Except Contested Items.

These Can Be Disposed of on Short Notice—A Night Session on Tuesday May Be Necessary—The Senate Will Vote on the Anti-Bond Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—"I believe we may be able to adjourn by Saturday," said Senator Allison, chairman of the senate committee on appropriations. "The session may run until Monday, but there is really no good reason why we should not have a final adjournment on Monday. I have named. All of the appropriation bills are enrolled with the exception of the contested items in conference, and these can be enrolled on short notice."

Senator Allison is not alone in this opinion and for the purpose of getting away at the earliest possible moment he has named the date after Monday will begin its daily sessions at 11 a. m. and remain in session as late as 7 p. m.

The idea is to get local business necessary, on Tuesday, for the senate has agreed that on that day it will take a final vote on the anti-bond bill. It is the general impression that a vote will be had before adjournment on the filled cheese bill, which has already passed the house, although a vigorous opposition will be offered to it in the senate. The understanding is that the senate will endeavor to pass the river and harbor bill over the president's veto the day following similar action on that measure by the house. But little, if any, debate is anticipated. The conference on the post office appropriation bill has practically agreed upon all items except the Gorman amendment restricting the consolidation of post offices by the postmaster general. It is claimed the house will accede to this amendment. The first conference on this bill was held until Saturday last, although it passed both houses more than a month ago. The only matters that will be likely to cause debate in other appropriation bills in conference are the sectarian school question in the Indian bill, the decrease of the number of battleships; the limitation of post offices by the postmaster general. It is claimed the house will accede to this amendment. The first conference on this bill was held until Saturday last, although it passed both houses more than a month ago. ## SIGHTSEERS.

One Hundred Thousand People Visit the St. Louis Ruins.

All Churches Took Up Contributions for Relief of the Sufferers.

Saturday a day of funerals in the Stricken City—St. Louis Ruins—Thousands of People, Over, Notwithstanding Orders of Absence From Other Cities.

St. Louis, June 1.—The thousands of men at work in the ruined district are bringing out of chaos, and it will be but a few days before nearly every trace of the material wreckage caused by the tornado of Wednesday night has been cleared away. A satisfactory morning the following table was compiled for the United Press by the city coroner:

Known dead in St. Louis, 194.
Unknown dead in St. Louis, 8.
Fataally injured in St. Louis, 18.
Missing in St. Louis, 10.
Known dead in East St. Louis, 128.
Unknown dead in East St. Louis, 3.
Fataally injured in East St. Louis, 1.
Total fatality, 415.

Some mounds of ruins remain not fully explored, but those best acquainted with the localities express confidence that all bodies have been recovered.

The injured are being cared for in a manner which should make every citizen feel proud of the hospital facilities of St. Louis. Some are under the immediate care of the city department. Others are in the college and church hospitals. All are receiving the best that surgical skill and professional nursing can give. St. Louis does not need the tents offered by the government. All along the path of the storm Friday boys distributed long lists of homes, flats and rooms to be had at the same rentals that prevailed before this new demand was created. There are fifty jobs awaiting every carpenter, bricklayer, roofer, plumber and glazier in the city. The supply of material will probably run short before the work is completed. But this far no disposition to deal unfairly with the pressing demand has shown itself. A minimum of crime is reported. The precautions taken by the police authorities with the assistance of the national guard have spared the city from the disgrace of acts of vandalism and plunder.

The relief fund is swelling. It is now nearly $50,000. Investors are taking advantage of charity, those having the matter in hand are pleased to note a strong and widespread disposition among the people in the path of the storm to help themselves. Among 10,000 families sorely stricken, there are some hundreds that must be helped.

Energetic search of the ruins of the city hospital was made Saturday by firemen furnished by Chief Switzer. A careful canvass of the situation in East St. Louis results in an estimate that the damage to property within the corporate limits will exceed $2,000,000 while the number of fatalities may not reach the citizens executive committee's calculation of 200. However, prominent citizens insist that the financial losses will aggregate $5,000,000, and that the list of the dead will reach fully twice its present known number.

There have been inquiries held over the bodies of St. Louis victims. On Saturday morning contained a list of nearly a score of dead for the officials to begin work on.

Four companies of militia are patrolling the devastated district and are protecting property from thieves and vandals who have looted in on every train.

East St. Louis will be for several days to come a city of funerals. In St. Peter's, St. Henry's and the city cemeteries, as well as the cemeteries of adjoining cities, grave are being prepared for the victims of Wednesday's disaster, and solemn orations of sad-faced people are traversing the streets of St. Louis, following their loved ones to the last resting places. There are funerals on all sides. Hardly a street or block was left which did not have one or more persons who were claimed as victims by the storm, and many of them were buried Friday in the early morning decomposition. This and the overcrowded condition of the morgue has hastened many of the funerals.

In St. Louis Saturday there was an almost unbroken line of funeral processions enroute to Calvary and Bellefontaine cemeteries.

Outside cities and surrounding towns have been called upon to furnish hearses and carriages to accommodate the demand for conveyances. Entire gangs of workmen are employed in preparing graves, and memorial day is surely a day of mourning in the Mound City.

Subscriptions to the fund for the relief of the homeless are pouring in at a gratifying rate, considering that the extent of the calamity has partially paralyzed the city. The Merchants' exchange funds amount to more than $100,000. President Thompson called a meeting of the Real Estate exchange Friday and nearly $2,000 was raised in a few minutes. Secretary Adams raised $500 in two hours at the fair grounds Friday afternoon.

The street car system is crippled, and the telephone and telegraph service in the city is practically useless. The streets in the southern portion of the city are littered with debris and broken and twisted wires. It will be weeks before all the marks of the storm are removed from the thoroughfares.

The St. Louis newspapers called forward and placed their 15 heavy wagons at the disposal of the distressed. The noble hearted drivers will be on duty all day Sunday gratis to relieve the distressed. The wholesale grocers of Cupples' station sent out 75 wagons and trucks on the same errand of mercy. By Sunday night every one in the wrecked district will be safely moved, difficulty has been found in securing laborers for the work of clearing away the debris, and those who are able and willing to work are demanding a rate of 50 cents an hour. Wages of bricklayers have been advanced from 35 cents to $1.10 an hour.

The damage to residence property in St. Louis is estimated by real estate men at nearly three million dollars. A report from Warrensburg Saturday morning says that the report that the Warrensburg News-Examiner was destroyed by the storm Wednesday night and 50 persons killed, is wholly untrue.

The only addition to the death list Sunday was Carlo Almonaci, a peddler who died at the Alexian brothers hospital at 9 p. m. There are three unknown corpses at the city morgue. The stricken district was the scene of 100,000 sightseers Sunday, and their sympathies went out to the homeless sufferers who clung to their dismantled homes. The steady mill of rain found hundreds of families unprotected, save by hastily constructed "lean-tos" against the few remaining walls. Some were provided with tents. Three hundred of these were taken from the Jefferson Hotel. The Provident association, the Business Men's league and the public relief committee have provided for 150 families, each receiving food sufficient for two weeks, and each shelter as could be secured. All the transfer and express companies have hauled two the few belongings of the sufferers who secured rooms.

Attendance at all the churches was unusually large Sunday. The service was memorial in character. Dr. Schuyler, dean of Christ church cathedral, held a special afternoon service, at which a large sum was contributed to swell the relief fund.

The two services at Pilgrim Congregational church, held nearly a week ago, were the last of the week. Contributions were made in all the churches and pledges made to continue the relief until the need ceased. Arrangements for the relief of the city for society, church and guild, in the city for benefit entertainments.

A bank was presented Sunday night at Union station for the prompt work of the special detail of 50 policemen. The 50,000 visitors who had viewed the ruins gave their hands in the early evening. The Midway, the grand hall on the second floor, the waiting rooms and every passage way was crowded with humanity. It was impossible to open the gates. Assistant Chief Kelly marshalled his men at the entrance of the street entrance and began forcing the crowd through the baggage room to the train sheds. It took half an hour to relieve the pressure. Some fainting children and women were fought. Three women were injured and eight children were separated from their friends. There were probably a thousand in the crowd. The lower half of the city Sunday night wandering helpless in the dark ruins.

THE POPULAR FETE
Of the Coronation Ceremonies held in Moscow—Men and Women Trampled and Killed in the Dense Crowd. St. Louis, June 1.—The popular fete of the coronation ceremonies at which between 40,000 and 50,000 people were fed and indulged in all sorts of merry making, was held Saturday on the Hodynski plain opposite the Petrofsky palace, and was the scene of a number of fatalities that have marked the coronation festivities. This free fete, which has always been the popular feature of coronations has hitherto been the occasion of a great deal of crowding and good natured fighting for places on the part of the hundreds of thousands of guests of the city, but no such gathering was ever witnessed on the Hodynski plain as that which assembled Saturday.

Although the official report places the number of dead at 1,136, it is highly probable that the actual number of victims will never be known. The view of many reckons that 1,136 persons were killed and 280 seriously, perhaps, fatally injured. The official report, however, does not include any dead and injured who were removed by friends. It would not be surprising if the number of deaths were largely in excess of the official figures.

Thirty bodies were found Sunday in the old district near the center of the plain. The well had been covered with planks, which had collapsed when the crowd passed over them. Some of the victims had their hands in the memorial cups which had been presented at the booths before the rush began. Among the bodies in the well were two living persons who had been made sane by the horror of the position. Their ravings when rescued were horrible to hear.

YIELD OR FIGHT.

No Half-Way Measures in the War in Cuba.

Weyler's Debt Decree is a Cause of Very Serious Comment.

Rebel Leaders, Octavio and Agronomic, Said to Have Been Wounded in a Battle at Ciego de Avila. News of the Situation in Cuba.

New York, June 1.—A dispatch to the World from Havana says: The rebel leaders, Octavio and Agronomic, are said to have been wounded in a fight at Ciego de Avila. The rebels are said to have been killed.

A discussion, an Autonomist journal, gives great prominence to an editorial in the Madrid Herald, headed "One Way or the Other," commenting on Cuban affairs. It is true," says the Herald, "that Spain should abandon the middle road and half measure, and either grant autonomy to Cuba, with an understanding that the United States, or abandon diplomacy and depend wholly on Spain's military power to end the war."

La Lucha, a liberal newspaper here, echoes the Herald's sentiments. In a leading editorial it says: "Leading Spanish officials of the cabinet are inclined to act in accordance with these views, and in favor of a peaceful settlement of Cuban affairs."

The reported protest of the United States government against Gen. Weyler's decree relative to the collection of debts is much commented upon. Discussion expresses surprise, saying the right of a nation to control its domestic affairs is not to be challenged. It maintains that the decree favors American creditors whose principal claims, it says, are not secured by Cuban land, but by legal contractors. To sell off lands now would cripple those who owe Americans and deprive the American claims. The largest claim is an American, it says, $200,000, held by Perkins of New York, and secured by a sugar plantation in the Cienfuegos district.

SCHOOLS SUFFER.
Many of the Buildings in St. Louis Wrecked by the Tornado.

St. Louis, Mo., June 1.—The officials of the board of education are busily figuring out an emergency plan for the schools. All the south end schools between Chouteau avenue and Arsenal street were badly damaged. Some had roofs blown away, walls caved in, and others got off with ruined windows and chimneys. The schools which suffered most are the Clinton, Clinton branch, Peabody, Charles Hoggan, Pestalozzi Grant, New Sheppard, L'Ouverture, Froebel, Lafayette, Louis Pasteur, Madison. The Compton, Marquette, Chouteau and Garfield also suffered. The school board can not repair the damage for less than $80,000, and perhaps a larger sum will be needed.

Several of the schools will not be opened again until September.

LONDON, June 1.—Mr. Gladstone's letter to Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state, on the subject of the reunion of the Christian churches, will be published Monday by the newspapers here. It will occupy two columns. Mr. Gladstone contends that a conference of Anglican and Roman prelates would morally be a stride toward ecclesiastical union, would make more conspicuous the religious differences of the churches and enhance the difficulty of future conciliation. Nevertheless, he says he does not expect an early resolution of the question, and he welcomed the church's early history. He marked the pope's command that an investigation be held as to the validity of the Anglican orders, and he said the advantages that are likely to accrue therefrom.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Mason County's 13 Votes Will Be Cast For Goldings.

The Democrats of Mason met at the Courthouse Saturday afternoon to select delegates to the State Convention which meets at Lexington Wednesday.

Hon. R. B. Lovel was named for Chairman by the sound money men, and the quicksilverers put up Hon. A. P. Gooding.

A vote by tellers disclosed 375 for Lovel, and only 58 for G. Gooding.

"That settled it!"

And then the goldbugs resolved that Grover was great:

That Johnny Carlisle was a daisy and ought to be President;

That Governor Bailey hadn't oughter had called out the troops;

And finally—

Resolved, That we declare it to be the duty of every Democrat and true American to submit to the will of the majority, and we pledge ourselves to support the nominees of the Chicago Convention without regard to ratio or standard.

Mr. James N. Kehoe was recommended for District Delegate to Chicago.

Eighty-one sound money men were elected Delegates to the Lexington Convention, and instructed to vote as a unit—the vote to be cast by those present only in person.

This is the way the Ninth Congressional District lined up on the Money question in Saturday's Conventions:

	Sound Money.	Free Silver.

Lawrence.....	9	9
Mason.....	13	13
Nichols.....	7	7

The figures from the entire state indicate that the Lexington Convention will contain 500 free silver levellers against 309 representatives of an honest dollar.

A number of members of George B. Bailey Post of Aberdeen came over Saturday afternoon and joined the Marysville G. A. R.'s in Memorial exercises.

If it required an annual outlay of $100 to insure a family against any serious consequences from an attack of bowel complaint during the year there are many who would feel it their duty to pay it; that they could not afford to risk their lives, and those of their family for such an amount. Any one can get this insurance for 25 cents, that being the price of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of bowel complaint before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. One or two doses of this remedy will cure any ordinary case. It never fails. Can you afford to take the risk for so small an amount? For sale by J. J. Wood, Drugist.

The fourth and best game was in the afternoon, and it was a good one, notwithstanding the fact that Newton, the Indiana Southerner, who did the pitching for Mayville, had the visitors at his mercy.

He is by long odds the best pitcher that was ever in the Mayville Park, he having an F. F. V. delivery and all the curves you are looking for.

Mr. Newton will be 19 years old next October, and judging from the way he throws a ball now, by the time he crosses the 21 mark there will have to be a hard-ened steel machine made to hold his balls.

He made monkeys of the visitors, striking out seventeen of the thirty-two batters, and could have struck them all out had he so desired, but being of a sympathetic nature he virtually gave them the two runs they scored.

Keller caught a remarkable game considering this being the first time he ever caught Newton, and the whole team used the stick like Leaguers.

They leave tomorrow for Knoxville where they play a series of games with that team.

The game by innings was as follows:

FIRST INNING.
Cox jolted a nice fly into center for an out, Gray rolled one down to second for an out at first, Lautenbach sent one to short for a base, Lucas sent a screamer into center for two bases, scoring Lautenbach, Sutherland rolled one down the alley for a base, Keller hit to third for an out at first.

Ferguson struck out, Dugan fouled out, Frey beat the wind as hard as he could.

SECOND INNING.
Wadsworth flew out to third, Rudy hit to short, who threw low and Rudy took second, Newton sent her down to second for an out at first, Cox hit a fly to short, who muffed it, Gray walked, Lautenbach smashed one down to short and he fumbled it and gave the runner life and Rudy and Cox the rubber, while Lautenbach was caught trying to swipe second.

Latimer, Hunt and Roberts couldn't have hit a balloon, much less the ball.

THIRD INNING.
Lucas drove one through shortstop's legs for a base, Sutherland hit past second for life, Keller hit to short and forced Sutherland at second, Wadsworth drove a long fly to center for an out, Lucas scored on the throw-in, Rudy poked one past short for a base, scoring Keller, Newton fouled out to third.
